

An aerial photograph of the Chicago skyline at sunset. The city is densely packed with skyscrapers, and the sun is low on the horizon, casting a warm, golden glow over the buildings and the surrounding area. The Lake Michigan is visible on the left side of the image.

Marking a geographic area on a map

Showing the following layers -

- 1. Full public areas and incomplete public areas
- 2. Buildings not assigned to gardens

Receiving the raw data in table format